

Customs brokerage and border solutions for hauliers, by the RHA

Customs declarations between the EU and GB will apply to freight in both directions from 1 January. Safety and Security declarations will become the responsibility of the haulier. New border procedures will also impact how your business moves goods.

By bringing together the expertise of our policy department, the experience of the many customs procedures and the knowledge gained from serving the haulage and logistics for over 75 years, the RHA Customs Brokerage, will deliver a programme of operational guidance and the practical customs solutions that we know the industry needs.

Free webinars

Over the coming weeks, we are holding a series of webinars designed to help you prepare for the changes in customs processes. We'll strip away the jargon to provide you with key information that will enable you to export freight with minimal disruption. We'll connect you with leading experts in the field and offer advice and guidance to overcome the challenges ahead.

A Haulier's Guide to Border and Customs Changes

Get your business border ready with RHA Customs Brokerage.

Rules and procedures are changing for drivers and vehicles operating in Europe. This will result in operational changes, but there are actions you can take today to remain compliant in January:

Declarations

- Customs declarations and safety and security declarations will be needed. Customs declarations will be required for both import and export. For many hauliers, the best way to remain compliant will be to work with a customs broker or intermediary. Safety and Security declarations will be the responsibility of the haulier from 1 January. Our service allows hauliers to manage all of their declarations in one place.
 - Join our webinars to ensure that you are aware of what is needed in January.
 - Appoint a broker to help you deal with your customs and safety and security declarations.

Driver

- International Driver Permits (IDP) may be needed from 1 January.
- Passport with 6 months validity left on it will be needed by drivers traveling into Europe.
- Awareness of new procedures. You will need to ensure your drivers are aware of what they need to do under the new border regulations.
 - Sign up to our service and updates and we will give you all you need to carry out this training in house.

Vehicle

- Insurance green cards will be needed to prove that your vehicle is insured abroad.
- All vehicles will need to display a separate GB sticker to travel.
 - Compliant GB stickers will be provided to all hauliers who sign up to the RHA Customs Brokerage service before 10 December.

Operations

- Operator Licencing – UK Operators undertaking international work will continue to need the relevant operator licences or permits.
- Pallets – You will need to ensure that your pallets are ISPM 15 standard and are stamped accordingly.
- Routing – You may need to route your vehicles differently to avoid transiting through European countries or to use specific customs or border control points in GB. This may require an overhaul of your route planning as this will impact your drivers' hours.
- Incoterms – Haulier can now be responsible for these and this may impact your operations.
- UK EORI Number – You need to register for a UK EORI Number as these will be required after 1 January. You can apply here: www.gov.uk/eori
- EU EORI Number – You will also need an EU EORI Number, you can apply for this once you have a UK EORI Number. You can apply here: https://ec.europa.eu/taxation_customs/business/customs-p.

Talk to your customers
